

Exercise 141: Display the Head of a File

(Solved—40 Lines)

Unix-based operating systems usually include a tool named `head`. It displays the first 10 lines of a file whose name is provided as a command line parameter. Write a Python program that provides the same behavior. Display an appropriate error message if the file requested by the user does not exist or if the command line parameter is omitted.